Revelation 1:5-6 (NKJV) “To Him who loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood, 6 and has made us kings and priests to His God and Father, to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.”

INTRO: In the Garden of Eden man was created both as a king and a priest. He was king of the garden and priest of his life and family. One of the most devastating things that occurred in the Fall is that man lost much of his ability to function effectively in both roles at the same time. From Eden to today each of us has a natural bent toward either a kingly or priestly anointing. (Please know – I am aware that we all have kingly and priestly duties in the proper custodianship of our own lives)

A priest is all about vision: A king is all about provision. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) In the Old Testament the king did not go to war without the direction and blessing of a priest. The priest would listen to the Lord and see whether the Lord would bless the effort and if so, what the battle strategy should look like. The priest hears from God and points the way. The king wages war, conquers the enemy and provides the spoils.

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

One of the greatest tragedies of the modern-day church is that we have glamorized the office of priests and have unintentionally made kings feel worthless and useless. We have made priests out of kings and they have struggled with their role in the body of Christ. As a result, many priests have lived miserable lives without even realizing what was wrong.

During these sessions my goal will be to clearly communicate the office of the king and priest and allow you to decide under the direction of the Holy Spirit where you fit in the body of Christ.

Once you have discovered where you fit, I welcome you to:

- Get involved in the area of your gifting and anointing...
- Continue where you have been serving...
- Quit what you have been doing...
- Make necessary adjustments...

TWO ADAMS – KING AND PRIEST

From the very beginning of time God seemed to be setting man up to function in the role of king or priest. Adam functioned in the role of both king and priest. Adam was king of the garden and priest of his home: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- He was given dominion over animal and plant life... (King)
- He was assigned the responsibility for the moral and spiritual stability of his home... (Priest)

To prove my point let me ask: Who did God first speak to after the fall? (“Adam, where are you? ”) Who did He deal the most severely with, Adam or Eve? (Adam – “With the sweat of your brow”)

There are two Adams referred to in Scripture. The first Adam is the Adam of Eden, who was weak and failed miserably. The second Adam is Christ. Christ in turn passes His powers to the Christ follower. Christ followers in turn are called upon to live a victorious, overcoming Christian life, in spite of the pressure to do otherwise.

The first Adam failed as both king and priest. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) The failure of this Adam has greatly limited every person who has ever come into the world. As the king of the garden, this Adam was able to exercise great powers. He was not as powerful as God but he was created to exercise dominion over things that none of us have ever considered.

(END OF LESSON ONE)

KINGS AND PRIESTS DEFINED

In the Old Testament economy both the king and the priest occupied very prominent roles in the natural and spiritual life of the people of God. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) The same is true today, kings deal with natural things while priests are assigned to moral and spiritual things.

As you well know, God selected Saul to be the first king of Israel (Relate story of how this came about).

Even before the leadership of kings was instituted in Israel, we see men operating in a kingly role (Adam, Abraham, Moses, Joshua, Caleb).

Priests are selected from the tribe of Levi: In the Divine order of God, He chose the tribe of Levi to be priests, which meant there would now only be eleven tribes in Israel. God's answer to this dilemma was to divide the tribe of Joseph into two parts – Ephraim and Manasseh (Numbers chapter one), thus preserving the sanctity of the twelve tribes of Israel. (Joke about man who believed his wife was from the tribe of Levi – she was always offering up burnt offerings)

Priests were to be very different from kings and function in a completely different role. Let's look at the roles of kings and priests.

Priests were called to vision, they: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Carried the responsibility of hearing from God...
- Offered sacrifices for the people...
- Received tithes and offerings from the people...
- Cared for the house of God...
- Cared for the widows and orphans...
- Cared for the stranger at the gate...

- Spoke encouragement to the people before battle...

Kings were called to provision, they:
(PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Developed strategies to protect the people of God...
- Destroyed the enemies of God...
- Took the spoils of war...
- Returned the spoils of war to the economy of the people of God...
- Paid tithes and offerings to the priests...
- Governed the physical affairs of the nation...
- Carried out the commands of the priests with respect to the direction of the nation...

Priests point the way, kings make a way;
priests are leaders, kings find ways to accomplish difficult, even impossible tasks.

Even though priests were from time to time involved in government as advisors, they didn't stir the people to overthrow bad kings. Rather, they spoke the word of the Lord over the situation and eventually judgment came. While kings at times gave directly to the needs of the people, they were not permitted to interfere with the priest's office. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

In fact, if a king tried to do a priest's job, he suffered judgment from the Lord. Once when Saul was impatient to go into battle, he stepped over the line when Samuel was delayed. The priest was to offer sacrifice and pronounce blessing over the people before battle. Deuteronomy 20:1-4 (NKJV) "When you go out to battle against your enemies, and see horses and chariots and people more numerous than you, do not be afraid of them; for the LORD your God is with you, who brought you up from the land of Egypt. 2 So it shall be, when you are on the verge of battle, that the priest shall approach and speak to the people. 3 And he shall say to them, ‘Hear, O Israel: Today you are on the verge of battle with your enemies. Do not let your heart faint, do not be afraid, and do not tremble or be terrified because of them; 4 for the LORD your God is He who goes with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.’”

When Samuel was late, Saul made the sacrifice himself, and invalidated his office as king. In 1 Samuel 13:11, Samuel said to Saul, “What have you done?” The event was so out of place for a king that Samuel in verse fourteen pronounced this word of judgment against Saul, “now your kingdom shall not continue.”

While some minor common ground was permitted, the lines of separation were pretty firm. Some things were simply not permitted. This separation brought great respect for both offices. Kings refused to go to war without the priest's blessing; Priests wouldn't have anything to distribute to the nation without the king's success in battle. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

It has always taken human and financial resources to run the kingdom of God (The church), and it always will. If the Levites had tried to take all the truly committed men of Israel and make priests out of them, they would have severely upset the balance between vision and provision.

It would have been both ridiculous and disastrous for the tribe of Levi to make the other twelve tribes feel guilty because they were not priests. The priesthood wasn't God's destiny for the other tribes. They were warriors, providers, and protectors of the nation.

What is God's destiny for your life? Do your gifts and abilities line up with being a king or priest?

Please hear me out on this point. I know we are all a royal priesthood and we shall rule and reign together with God on that eternal day. I also am aware that we are all, to some degree, both kings and priests. But could it be that as a matter of call or emphasis that we may lean or be bent more to one side than the other? Could it be that the call to provision could be just as important and equally viewed by God as the call to receive the vision? Can we all have a pulpit ministry? If we did, who would pay the bills?

Let me ask a few soul-searching questions:
(PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Are you more comfortable with vision or provision?

- Are you more likely to hear from God for yourself or follow someone who has?
- Would you rather give or serve?
- Are you more inclined to pray with someone who is experiencing a problem or refer them to a more spiritual person?
- Would you rather perform a physical task or a spiritual task at church?

(END OF LESSON TWO)

GIFTINGS OF KINGS AND PRIESTS

Israel was formed from the thirteen divisions of Jacob's family. The tribe of Levi became the priests and the tribe of Joseph was divided in two components: The tribe of Manasseh, and the tribe of Ephraim. I want us to take a quick look at the number of men in these thirteen tribes:

- Reuben – 46,500
- Simeon – 59,300
- Gad – 45,650

- Judah – 74,600
- Issachar – 54,400
- Zebulun – 57,400
- Ephraim – 40,500
- Manasseh – 32,200
- Benjamin – 35,400
- Dan – 62,700
- Asher – 41,500
- Naphtali – 53,400

The number of able-bodied men totaled 583,550, averaging 48,630 men per tribe. We know the tribe of Levi (who were designated to be the priests) was smaller than any of the other tribes. Based on the sheer numbers we know there were more than twelve kings for every priest in Israel. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) The Tribe of Levi was not to be numbered. As a result, we are not quite sure of the exact ratio, but some believe the number could be as much as twenty-seven to one. If this is true, then the number of kings to priests in the church should fall somewhere in the range of twelve-to-one and twenty-seven-to-one! (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Remember, the tribe of Levi was smaller than the other tribes, which meant, in the giving of tithes and offerings, there were approximately twelve to twenty-seven men tithing for every priest serving in spiritual matters. This structure provided ample supply for the priests to care for their responsibilities without needing to concern themselves with material things for livelihood or ministry purposes.

Much of the frustration in the body of Christ stems from well-intentioned priests who feel the pressure to grow a church capable of providing first-class facilities, paying salaries and conducting outreach, when the focus of the priest is to be on ministry and ministry alone. Frustrated priests have functioned outside their call as high-pressure fundraisers, in turn sowing their frustrated spirit throughout the entire body. When frustration is sown throughout the body tempers flare, offense is common, unity and harmony are almost non-existent, and the focus of the group is never solidified behind a common cause. A fractured vision always results in goals being modified downward. When goals are modified downward the enemy wins and the Kingdom of God loses.

Can you imagine the chaos that would have prevailed in Israel if every tribe fancied themselves to be priests?

- Their enemies would have consumed them...
- The military barracks would have been empty and the sanctuary full...
- They never would have lived in Canaan... (Prayer is a must against giants but eventually warriors must fire some shots)

- Rather than setting aside livestock for sacrifice; livestock for breeding purposes; livestock for consumption; all the livestock would have been sacrificed and the people would have starved to death...
- They would have all died of smoke inhalation from all the sacrifices that were going up...

I believe the modern church has through ignorance of other options, created subtle pressure to make priests out of every member, all the while ignoring the role of kings. When the role of kings is ignored the work of the kings ceases, priests are then called upon to do the work of the kings.

Priests have performed the ministry of a king in the modern church but they are uncomfortable in such a role. People rarely succeed unless they are comfortable with what they are doing.

Consequently, we have become a kingdom of priests, not kings and priests. If Israel is any indication of the numerical division between kings and priests, there should be far more kings than priests (27 to 1).

What are the consequences of a kingdom overloaded with priests? The need is great the provision is anemic! (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) (The financing of the church has been reduced to chili suppers, junk auctions, candy sales and all kinds of thons!)

The modern-day church suffers for lack of long-range planning and provision, but a far worse problem is the lack of implementation. I believe the reason for this is because the king's side of the kingdom ranges from being almost totally ignored to severely underdeveloped. Kings cannot seem to find their place in the body. They are made to feel like second-class citizens because they are not teaching, preaching, leading a camp out, or surrendering all to move to some remote jungle to preach. This lack of honor and recognition has left the twenty-seven providers feeling that they are failures spiritually and thereby don't see themselves as needed, valuable, and necessary to the fulfillment of God's plan on earth or in the church.

Unfulfilled kings become spectators and in danger of eventually dropping out because they can't find their place. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

I believe the call of God to the king's side of the kingdom is just as real and necessary as the call to the priest's side. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) It is unknown what the results would be if pastors and lay people could embrace this simple concept and celebrate one another as well as minister in the area of their giftedness. Encouragement of kings would provoke them to good works, and the load taken off of priests would allow them to pray and fast and give clear direction.

The result would be that divine teamwork would create more powerful, effective churches that could minister more relevantly to their communities and eventually to the world. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Kings would have more respect for their priests because they would be free, blessed, and sent to war for the kingdom, and priests could focus on receiving direction for the next step.

I believe God in His infinite wisdom has carved out a role for every person to function in. Your role will either look like a king or priest depending on your natural gifting and spiritual gifting. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

If you want to be really miserable and unfulfilled just attempt being a priest when you are really a king; or try being a king when you are really a priest. (Interview with pastor of 30 years who hated his calling)

It is no accident that you were born with certain natural gifts; it is also no accident that He has endowed you with certain spiritual gifts that serve to enhance and highlight your natural gifts.

(DISTRIBUTE & EXPLAIN PERSONALITY/GIFTS TEST)

(END OF LESSON THREE)

ANOINTING OF KINGS AND PRIESTS (MAKE SURE EVERYONE HAS SUBMITTED THEIR PERSONALITY/GIFTS TEST)

While there is often some crossover in the anointing of kings and priests, the gifting between the two is very distinct. The crossover discovered in the anointing is often a result of a person developing those gifts out of necessity. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

For instance, I have a heavy anointing in the area of the priesthood, out of necessity I have often crossed over into the gifting of a king in the arena of raising finances to fulfill the vision.

(My experience raising funds for the campground) I have literally raised millions of dollars for the kingdom but this is certainly not my comfort zone, nor is it a natural gifting! Though this is not a natural gifting, I think I could safely say I have been anointed to perform this task from time to time. I don't think I could have been so successful apart from the anointing!

In the early part of my ministry, I avoided the task of administration as if it were a plague. I never distributed a board meeting agenda; I rarely planned events more than a few weeks in advance; I did not provide job descriptions for staff or volunteers; a flow chart was completely out of the question. I would excuse this lack of administration and organization by saying "I am not gifted in administration."

(Story of going to Malvern to pastor) Out of sheer necessity I began to challenge myself in the area of administration and much to my surprise I became anointed to perform the task! I would not say I have a strong gifting in these areas but I have surely been anointed to perform enough administrative tasks to pastor successfully in spite of the fact I am sorely lacking in giftedness in this area. Until I came to CT, I have never had the luxury of being able to hire people to perform these tasks. Without significant gifts in these areas, God has anointed me to:

- Rewrite the constitution & by-laws of two different churches...
- Rewrite the policy and procedures manuals of two different churches...
- Write a committee handbook...
- Write four books and two training manuals...
- Successfully begin multiple ministries and build them from the ground up...
- Successfully pastor two multiple staff churches...
- Initiate and establish a budgeting process for three different churches...
- Successfully administrate the budgets of ministries that handle millions of dollars a year...

- Eliminated the indebtedness of three churches...
- Successfully navigate the purchase of 34 acres of property to relocate a church that had been in the same location since 1909...
- Raise more than seven million dollars for District campgrounds...
- Currently responsible for raising over ten million dollars a year for ministry purposes...

If I primarily operate in a priestly anointing why would God anoint me to function in a role so kingly in nature? Because of the woeful lack of kingly candidates available for the multiplicity of projects in the kingdom! (Balaam's donkey Numbers 22)

Even though at times I have been anointed to do these things, administrative tasks and raising money takes twice as much work on my part as it takes to preach a sermon or teach a class.

For me, developing a business plan is much more difficult than projecting the vision for the church or preparing to minister to a group of people.

If more people who are gifted in the kingly arena would accept their calling, report for duty, and allow the mantle of God's anointing to fall upon them, priests could retire from moonlighting as kings! (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

My diagnosis looks like this: I am gifted as a priest; I have at times been anointed with a kingly anointing, but a person who is anointed but not gifted can never do the job as well as those who are both anointed and gifted to fulfill a task.

The kingdom would be blessed if the proper number of kings and priests would step forward and receive their respective anointing and then function in the area of their giftedness.

To illustrate the distinction in the anointing of a king or priest I want us to look at the lives and responsibilities of Saul, a king, and Samuel a priest.

Saul: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- His initial training was unrelated to the responsibilities of the throne...
- He was called by God to be a king...
- He was busy fulfilling less important responsibilities when called to the throne...
- He was selected as the first king of Israel...
- He was found hiding among the stuff...
- He was given a new heart...

- He was commissioned to follow the direction of the priests...
- He was commissioned to defeat the enemies of God... (Especially Amalek)
- He was commissioned to enrich Israel with the spoils of the enemies...
- He lost the kingdom because he tried to fulfill the responsibilities of the priests office...

Samuel: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- He was dedicated to the Lord as a Nazarite...
- He ministered to the Lord in the Temple...
- He ministered to others through his work in the Temple...
- He boldly spoke the Word of God...
- He had favor with God and man...
- He served as a priest, prophet, and judge in Israel...

- He performed miracles...
- He prophesied...
- He pronounced judgment...
- He declared direction for the nation...

Would you agree that...

- Preparing to preach a sermon - Writing a business plan...
- Teaching a class - Arranging for financing...
- Conducting a worship service - Raising the necessary funds for a project...
- Counseling a couple with marital problems - Overseeing a building project...

...require two very different kinds of gifts and anointing?

It is extremely important to note that while the two responsibilities require two kinds of gifts they both must be anointed to be most effective. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

It doesn't matter how gifted you are, you will never rise to the highest level of productivity unless and until you acquire God's anointing upon the tasks at hand!

The anointing will allow the individual to avoid invisible pitfalls; prepare for unrevealed opportunities; and accelerate their own natural abilities and gifts.

The offices of kings and priests require different strengths, talents, abilities and anointing. Believe it or not, the anointing is not a one-size-fits-all proposition! Every task requires a unique anointing. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

If the church is to meet its challenges and live up to its potential it must find a way to develop every talent, gift, and anointing of every member and adherent.

When this begins to occur the acceleration of the kingdom of God in this earth will be absolutely staggering. We will no longer experience mere addition but phenomenal multiplication. Multiplication was the method of growing the first century church. Of course, the first century church utilized the gifts, talents, and anointing of all it's adherents.

In the New Testament Church, the priests:
(PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Preached...
- Taught...
- Prophesied...
- Provided direction...

The kings: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Supported the priests...

- Provided provision...
- Took care of business...
- Defended the cause...

(END OF LESSON FOUR)

VISION OF KINGS AND PRIESTS

There is no doubt a distinct line between the focus of kings and priests:

- Priests are all about vision - kings are all about provision...
- Priests point the way - kings make a way...
- Priests are leaders - kings are doers...

Priests tend to gravitate toward the visionary side of the picture rather than thinking through all the components and complexities of provision. Priests tend to be more sensitive to divine directives than do kings; they generally hear the direction and timing of God more easily than kings. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The very nature of having an ear to the ground in the spiritual dimension places priests out in front in leadership. A leader is expected to receive and articulate vision as a matter of routine. Receiving and articulating vision as a matter of routine can bring with it the danger of feeling super-spiritual. (Talk about vision being initiated by the cries of the people)

Every priest must surround himself with other priests who have been given permission to speak into his life, encouraging him when he is on the right track and raising the voice of caution when he is not.

When a priest becomes lifted up in pride and does not deal with this malady in a timely fashion, the voice of God will become less pronounced and the voice of the flesh will become more and more dominant. In such a case:

- The vision becomes compromised...
- The direction is off target...
- Kings begin to hone in on inaccurate goals...
- Kings are asked to fight improper battles...
- The entire church works as one who beats the air...

When these things occur within the church there will be a lack of meaningful and lasting success. The lack of meaningful and lasting success causes the following problems: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Frustration begins to set in...
- The priests become more concerned with their own comfort than receiving and articulating vision...

- Kings continue to conquer, but tend to consume and hoard rather than to give...
- Priests attempt to be kings...
- Kings attempt to be priests...
- Anarchy sets in and the kingdom of God is rendered completely ineffective...

I want to reemphasize; priests generate vision; kings generate provision. I want to encourage every person in this room who has identified yourself as a priest to begin to seek God for the vision He has for your particular area of ministry. When a priest receives the vision they should: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Make sure they have heard from God...
- Write it down and refer to it repeatedly...
- Communicate it with those who are called to serve...

- Articulate the vision every time they speak to the troops finding a different way to say it each time...

Habakkuk 2:1-3 (NKJV) "I will stand my watch, And set myself on the rampart, And watch to see what He will say to me, And what I will answer when I am corrected. 2 Then the LORD answered me and said: 'Write the vision And make it plain on tablets, That he may run who reads it. 3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time; But at the end it will speak, and it will not lie. Though it tarries, wait for it; Because it will surely come, It will not tarry.'"

Vision requires resources. When a priest receives vision that includes the evangelization of the lost or the growth of the organization both kings and priests know the implementation of the vision will require a significant escalation in the amount of resources needed: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Marketing resources...
- Ministry resources...
- Training resources...
- Staffing resources...
- Facilities resources...

By the very nature of their gifting, call, and anointing, priests receive vision almost effortlessly. In the same way kings develop strategies (Sometimes called business plans) that facilitate the conquering of the necessary territory. Strategies are to a king what vision is to the priest. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) Kings tend to develop plans of attack as effortlessly as a priest receives vision. Strategies are difficult for priests to develop and carry out, and vision is somewhat illusive for kings. Why? It is not within the scope, strength, anointing, or vision of their call.

There is an urgent if not desperate need in the church for kings to understand and embrace their call and responsibility to the overall vision of the church. The church will do great damage to the kingdom of darkness and untold benefit to the kingdom of God when the priests receive and articulate their vision to a group of kings ready and anxious to pool their gifting, abilities, and resources to provide for the successful implementation and completion of the vision.

It remains to be seen what can be accomplished through the ministries of the local church when all its people understand their true calling and function within the context of that call.

Because the king's side of the kingdom has been virtually neglected, the priest must spend more time on provision than on vision thus becoming frustrated because it seems their appeal is falling on deaf ears. The lack of provision in most churches is not for lack of resources or ability to acquire those resources. The lack of resources is a result of several things: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Priests are attempting to fulfill the king's role in providing for resources...
- Kings are constantly meddling in the business of the priests...
- Priests are generally excellent in vision and inadequate in provision...
- Kings are normally awesome at provision and shortsighted in vision...

When kings are not identified, educated and empowered it becomes necessary for the priests to spend more time talking about what is missing (the provision) than they do about the vision. When priests feel it necessary to provide the resources necessary to fulfill the vision, the focus of the priest becomes divided and critical time and effort is lost in the articulation and implementation of the vision.

On the other hand, the kings, who have been made to feel alienated, unneeded, and guilty that they are not more committed, have withdrawn their heart and see what is going on as the pastor's vision.

The children of Israel had a very good understanding of the role of kings and priests, each accepting the articulation of the priests' vision as being from God. In addition, both kings and priests participated in the vision, each making a contribution toward its fulfillment.

Today we have churches full of frustrated kings sitting in pews with their arms folded because they do not understand their God given role in the overall scheme of things. Priests are equally frustrated because they have heard from God but don't have the resources to make it happen. This creates all kinds of problems; priests wrongly conclude that the people don't care; kings wrongly conclude they do not fit into God's plan for the church.

God made us to thrive on conquest whether it is visionary or provisionary. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

When individuals see their daily lives as being vitally important to the kingdom's success on planet Earth, something changes inside them. When Monday through Friday is as big a spiritual experience as Sunday, then we are making progress. For kings: Today's battlefield is the marketplace. For the priests: The battlefield is pointing the way under the direction of the Holy Spirit. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

When believers catch the vision that they are going to war to do exploits for God as providers for the kingdom, real life focus occurs. However, when they see the kingdom as a weekend thing that doesn't relate to their work, their need for conquest gets misplaced.

A good Biblical example is when King David should have been in battle with his men but instead was at home with time on his hands. Had he been planning his battles rather than planning his pleasures, the incident with Bathsheba may have never happened. (1 Samuel 11:1-4)

Sin usually requires a lot of planning, time, thought, and money. When your life is harnessed for the kingdom, you need not look anyplace else to find fulfillment.

There is nothing more exciting or rewarding than buying into a vision from God and seeing it fulfilled.

(END OF LESSON FIVE)

RELATIONSHIPS BETWEEN KINGS AND PRIESTS

Though kings and priests have separate gifting, anointing, and vision there is a tremendous need for close personal and professional relationships between the two. Without close personal and professional relationships between kings and priests the dynamic of appreciation for the struggle of each office is lost. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The loss of appreciation for the struggles of kings by priests and priests by kings, leads to resentment, separation, and eventually estrangement. We must never forget, no king has ever had sustained success without a priest pointing the way, and no priest has ever been able to attain his entire vision without a group of kings by his side.

Priests need kings and kings need priests. No priest is complete without a king and no king is complete without a priest. If this is true, the need for the cultivation of personal and professional relationships between kings and priests are of ultimate importance.

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

In the development of my leadership skills, I grew up in a climate of being trained not to get too close to the people I was engaged in pastoring. Almost every seminar for pastors and church growth seminars I have attended, I have heard the professionals warning those of us in the trenches, not to get too close to those we are attempting to lead! From the time I began to pastor (at age 19) I have focused on building close personal relationships with the people within my charge. While I have had my share of disappointments in this area, I must tell you those relationships have at times been:

- A bridge over troubled waters...
- Protection in times of danger...

- A buffer in times of attack...
- A shelter from the storms of life and ministry...

The very same people who speak out against close personal relationships between pastors and parishioners are quick to call themselves a shepherd and their people sheep. I could never quite figure out how to shepherd a flock of sheep without:

- Being in the same pasture with them...
- Drinking from the same brook as they drink...
- Experiencing the same challenges that they experience...
- Suffering their setbacks with them...
- Celebrating their victories with them...
- Traveling the paths of life with them...

I assume one of the reasons priests are told to keep their distance from kings, and kings are cautioned concerning getting too close to priests, is because kings have occasionally betrayed the confidence of priests, and priests have betrayed the confidences of kings. The transfer of information in the course of such relationships has sometimes been used to depose a priest or king. Such a thing cannot be allowed to happen without swift and severe consequences. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

I have found that both kings and priests are capable of betraying confidences. People are people irrespective of their profession or calling. The fact that a person professes Christ is no indication the person has enough integrity to refrain from betraying a confidence or engaging in the unscrupulous use of facts gained from a friendship, in a very public manner.

In spite of having had our confidence betrayed on occasion we must constantly cultivate friendships and relationships. The power of networking will draw us ever closer to the fulfillment of the vision we are called to. Proverbs 27:17 (NKJV) "As iron sharpens iron, so a man sharpens the countenance of his friend."

If you choose to live your life shutting yourself off from everyone you feel may be capable of betraying a confidence or using information gained during the course of a close personal relationship in a negative manner, eventually you are going to be a very untrusting, critical, lonely person.

The benefits to be gained from these relationships far outweigh their pitfalls.

Kings should maintain relationships with priests that are close enough to anticipate their heart and vision. Priests should maintain a relationship with a group of kings that is close enough to appreciate the struggles they face in the pursuit of

providing for the successful implementation of the vision. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Each should be close enough to the other to share the disappointment of defeat and the exhilaration of victory together.

Kings who do not have proper relationships with priests, become a law unto themselves, refusing to submit to the vision God has placed before them. Priests who do not have proper relationships with kings never seem to have a sane estimation of the effort involved in financing the realization of a vision, therefore the vision is all too often an elusive mirage.

Because of this, frustrated priests fancy themselves to be kings, leaving the work of the priesthood in an effort to provide for the successful completion of the vision.

Misdirected kings attempt to override the overall vision, vowing to finance only what they think is right. (All of their giving becomes designated giving)

Oftentimes priests who love God and kings who desire to please God go their separate ways because neither has a good grasp of the boundaries of their call. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

How does this happen? Kings are gifted and anointed to generate provision but struggle in receiving, articulating, and promoting vision. Because of the lack of a close relationship with a priest the resources of the king often become misplaced through selfish consumption, or sowing it in a dead-end cause.

(END OF LESSON SIX)

SOWING AND REAPING

Matthew 13:3-8 (NKJV) "Then He spoke many things to them in parables, saying: "Behold, a sower went out to sow.⁴ "And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them.⁵ "Some fell on stony places, where they did not have much earth; and they immediately sprang up because they had no depth of earth.⁶ "But when the sun was up they were scorched, and because they had no root they withered away.⁷ "And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up and choked them.⁸ "But others fell on good ground and yielded a crop: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty."

One very important truth every priest and king should keep in focus: The proportion of the harvest has as much to do with the soil in which it is sown as the seed itself.

A central truth every king and priest would do well to remember is: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- The tithe (10%) belongs in the storehouse - The general fund of the church the priest or king attends...
- The remainder of giving can be distributed to the vision of the priest whose vision touches the heart...

One of the greatest tragedies in the church is that kings are not being teamed up with priests who have a vision they can buy into. It is extremely important that the vision received by the priest be as attractive to the kings he is teamed up with, as to the priest himself. (LEAVE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME) Kings should seek out priests whose vision is compatible with their heart. It should be noted that no one will ever agree with every single detail, but there must be agreement between kings and priests on the overall thrust of the vision they are working together to accomplish. Remember, vision is the responsibility of priests; provision is the responsibility of kings.

If kings are generating provision without proper vision, the wealth is wasted. Kings are born for conquest and a king with no cause to invest in, often invests his wealth in ways that are not pleasing to God. Proverbs 29:18 (KJV) "Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

We all know people who could make a significant difference in the progress of the kingdom, but have chosen not to. Many of them have made their decision based on the personality of a priest, rather than on the significance of the vision the priest has articulated. Kings who make such decisions have not yet learned the difference between stewardship and ownership. You do not have to be a clone of the priest, or even a fan of the priest, to invest in the vision.

When a king does not know the difference between stewardship and ownership, the inborn desire for conquest will drive them to become: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Workaholics...
- Shopaholics...
- Alcoholics...
- Sportsaholics...
- Sexaholics...

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The end result of such a thing often finds its expression in what the world calls a mid-life crisis. A mid-life crisis can better be described as a vision crisis.

If an individual has found their place as a king, and has connected with a proper, spiritual counterpart, they will find continual contentment providing for family, and the successful completion of a God ordained vision.

I shudder to think how many millions of dollars in provision have been wasted because priests and kings didn't have proper relationships. I wonder how many visions have been short-circuited, leaving tens of thousands of people lost or in the dark, when it comes to becoming all they could be for God.

Priests simply don't carry the same anointing in finances as kings do. It just isn't their gifting or anointing. They often make foolish decisions in finances while kings look on in disbelief. Businessmen have often watched the fiscal irresponsibility of the church, and wrongly concluded that these men couldn't possibly be hearing from God. When this occurs their confidence is shaken, and they refuse to follow a priest who makes such foolish decisions with God's money.

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) (District insurance situation)

It is at this point that kings stop giving, which points to a far more serious problem, they withdraw their hearts. Matthew 6:19-21 (NKJV) “Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves break in and steal;20 “but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal.21 “For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.”

Priests who have not become connected to a proper group of kings often chase provision to their own hurt. Kings without priests try to generate vision, many times to their own hurt. Without the provision kings can provide, priests cannot fulfill the vision.

Without proper direction, kings sacrifice themselves on the altar of their own lusts.

When I become aware, that in order to become all God intended me to be, I need someone else, it is indeed a humbling experience. God is not looking for superstars in His Kingdom; He is looking to connect us to those who will complement our gift and anointing so that together we can accomplish the will of God. Galatians 5:13 (NKJV) "For you, brethren, have been called to liberty; only do not use liberty as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another."

When kings and priest are properly joined together, the result is divine teamwork. Teamwork can only find fulfillment through respect and cooperation. \(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE\)

Teamwork was the amazing dynamic that made the government of Israel so successful throughout the Old Testament. Kings respected priests and priests respected kings. Each knew the parameters of their own call and for the most part was perfectly content to operate within those boundaries. The thing that made this dynamic work is that each person, regardless of their gifting or calling, had a working knowledge of the importance of their contribution. Priests knew that to be successful they needed a king, and kings knew they must heed the words of the priests.

It remains to be seen what God can do in a city, through a group of individuals who fully understand and accept the truths you have just heard.

(END OF LESSON SEVEN)

DEVELOPMENT OF KINGS AND PRIESTS

It is impossible for a priest to fulfill his vision without a group of kings to support him. It is impossible for a group of kings to properly distribute their resources if they are not following a God-honoring priest.

In Deuteronomy chapter 17, Moses gives commandment concerning the behavior of Israel when they possessed the promised land of Canaan. Look at the guidelines he gave for the development of kings:

Deuteronomy 17:15 (NKJV) “You shall surely set a king over you whom the LORD your God chooses; one from among your brethren you shall set as king over you; you may not set a foreigner over you, who is not your brother.” Kings were to be full blood Jewish males chosen of God. An immigrant could not qualify. In the kingdom of God, kings should be chosen of God, born again brothers and sisters, who are familiar with the cause they are being enlisted to support. Deuteronomy 17:16 (NKJV) "But he shall not multiply horses for himself, nor cause the people to return to Egypt to multiply horses, for the LORD has said to you, 'You shall not return that way again.'"

Kings were not to multiply resources to themselves they were to direct their resources toward the establishment of Israel in Canaan. In the kingdom of God, kings are to devote the overflow of their resources to the cause they have been enlisted to support.

Kings are to pay their tithe to the church and provide for their family in an adequate manner, not only now, but for the future. The balance of the resources should be invested in the kingdom.

A good formula is: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- 10% tithe...

- 33% taxes...
- 10% savings...
- 47% be divided proportionally between the support of your family and special projects within the kingdom...

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Kings were to eliminate as many competing distractions as possible so their focus could be on the work of the kingdom. In the kingdom of God, kings are not to allow themselves to become so entangled with the things of this world that their focus is directed toward worldly goals, rather than toward kingdom purposes.

Kings were required to be knowledgeable of the Word of God and to conduct their life and business according to its character. In the kingdom of God, those who operate in a kingly anointing are to be knowledgeable of the Word of God and willing to conduct their life and business accordingly. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Kings were instructed to guard against pride and feelings, or actions of superiority. God was very much aware that those who served in such a role, and experienced business success and financial blessing, would be tempted to be lifted up in pride. In the kingdom of God, those who operate in a kingly anointing will likely experience business and financial success and as a result they are warned against pride and feelings of superiority. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Everyone, especially kings, should never forget that all success should be attributed to the Lord.

In Deuteronomy chapter 18 Moses turns his attention from kings to priests and gives commandment concerning the guidelines for development of priests: Deuteronomy 18:1-4 (NKJV) "The priests, the Levites—all the tribe of Levi—shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel; they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and His portion.2 "Therefore they shall have no inheritance among their brethren; the LORD is their inheritance, as He said to them. 3 "And this shall be the priest's due from the people, from those who offer a sacrifice, whether it is bull or sheep: they shall give to the priest the shoulder, the cheeks, and the stomach.4 "The firstfruits of your grain and your new wine and your oil, and the first of the fleece of your sheep, you shall give him." The priests were not given an inheritance in the land of Canaan. This seems strange indeed but there is a perfectly logical explanation for this command. The reason they were not to be given an inheritance is because they were to be given a portion of all that the kings received, on an ongoing basis. The priests were to live on the provision of the offerings given by the people. Likewise, the priests in the kingdom of God are to live on the provision of the offerings of the people.

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT

SLIDE) It is the will of God that full-time clergy-people are well cared for by the offerings of the Lords people. 1 Timothy

5:17-18 (NKJV) "Let the elders who rule

well be counted worthy of double honor, especially those who labor in the word and doctrine.18 For the Scripture says, "You* shall not muzzle an ox while it treads out the grain," and, "The laborer is worthy of his wages.*" While it is true this Scripture speaks directly to the compensation package of professional clergy-people, it actually goes a bit further to suggest that the priests work can include both full time clergy-people and others who are operating in a priestly role. The suggestion here is that the work of full-time and part-time priests are to be financed by the bounty of those operating in a kingly anointing. 1 Timothy 5:17

(NKJV) "Let the elders who rule well be counted worthy of double honor, especially those who labor in the word and doctrine."

The priests were to have a spiritual ministry.
In the kingdom of God, the priests are to focus on the spiritual aspect of ministry.
(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The place of ministry for the priest was of divine choosing. The priest did not choose his place of service; the place was the Lord's to choose. In the kingdom, God chooses when and where His priests serve. He also chooses who will serve with them. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The priests and prophets were to speak correction when the nation began to go astray from the commandments of the Lord. The people were to heed and obey the direction of the priests. In the kingdom of God, the priests are to give strong warning and correction when they become aware the people are deviating from the path God has chosen for them. The people are to heed and obey the words of the priests. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

The direction of priests and prophets must line up with the written Word of God, and will bear witness with the spirit of a believer, who is in right standing and relationship with God. If the believer is outside fellowship with God, or is harboring un-confessed sin, their spirit may be offended by the words of the priest or prophet. In such a case, the believer should base their evaluation of the accuracy of the words of the priest on whether or not it lines up with the written Word of God.

(END OF LESSON EIGHT)

LAWS OF THE HARVEST

Most Christians are uncomfortable talking about reward, especially if it has to do with the here-and-now rather than the sweet bye-and-bye. They become even more uncomfortable if the reward has anything to do with money. Much to-do is made in Scripture about reward. The following is a partial list of things we are going to be rewarded for:

- Confessing Christ...
- Soul winning...
- Keeping the commandments of the Lord...
- Doing righteous deeds...
- Showing mercy...
- Blessing the poor...
- Providing for the strangers and the orphans...
- Assisting the widows...
- Living honestly...
- Being faithful...

- Laboring with the hands...

On the other hand, the Bible is very clear about the penalty for such things as:

- Sin...
- Slavery...
- Oppressing the poor...

God would never instruct employers and their companies to adequately compensate employees while failing to properly reward those who contribute to the kingdom with their:

- Time...
- Talent...
- Effort...
- Finances...

(My experience with hiring the employees of a close personal friend to do some work on my land)

Many Christians do not believe it is proper to make a contribution to the kingdom expecting something in return. I challenge anyone to take the Bible and prove this position to me.

Nature itself points to the law of the harvest. The law of the harvest is two-fold: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME AND LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

- Sowing with the expectation of reaping always produces results...
- Each seed produces after its kind... (No farmer sow's turnips and expects to reap pinto beans)

If a farmer plants his crop not expecting anything in return the effort invested in bringing the crop to maturity will probably leave something to be desired. If the farmer fails to pay attention to the details involved in bringing the crop to maturity the harvest will most certainly be negatively affected.

(My experience pastoring farmers)

The Word of God is very clear on the law of the harvest. Psalm 126:6 (KJV) "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." The Contemporary English Version say's: "We cried on the way to plant our seeds, but we will celebrate and shout as we bring in the crops."

The Christian who invests time, talent, effort or finances expecting nothing in return, will, by-and-large, neglect the project somewhere between initiation and implementation.

(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT

SLIDE) When the project becomes neglected the end results will almost always be sub-par.

Oftentimes Christians sow their seeds and do nothing further to ensure its success. When their efforts do not produce any tangible results within an expected time frame, they completely dismiss it, because they were not expecting anything to begin with!

The businessperson who makes an investment that does not produce the expected results will move heaven and earth to discover what went wrong. Once the mistake is discovered and the necessary corrections have been made, they will make another attempt. (My experience with releasing God to rebuke the devourer for my sake)

Based on many years of ministry experience, it is my opinion that most Christian organizations suffer mass incompetence, because of a misunderstanding of the law of sowing and reaping. We sow expecting nothing in return and when we get the expected result, we assume this to be Gods will.

Gods will for kings and priests is sowing and reaping! (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Do you remember the law of the harvest? Sowing with the expectation of reaping always produces results. Each seed produces after its kind. If you witness to someone else's child, expect God to send someone to witness to yours. If you pray for the healing of someone else, expect your own. If you give to get the church out of debt, expect a debt reduction of your own. If you sow a seed into someone else's ministry, expect help with your own ministry.

The work of the farmer and his crew is never complete until the harvest has been gathered, marketed, and the profits have been properly distributed. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

If the process of the harvest requires multiple people to be involved, a harmonious display of teamwork must be displayed in order that the harvest be conserved. 1 Corinthians 3:1-8 (NEV) "My friends, you are acting like the people of this world. That's why I could not speak to you as spiritual people. You are like babies as far as your faith in Christ is concerned. 2 So I had to treat you like babies and feed you milk. You could not take solid food, and you still cannot, 3 because you are not yet spiritual. You are jealous and argue with each other. This proves that you are not spiritual and that you are acting like the people of this world. 4 Some of you say that you follow me, and others claim to follow Apollos. Isn't that how ordinary people behave? 5 Apollos and I are merely servants who helped you to have faith. It was the Lord who made it all happen. 6 I planted the seeds, Apollos watered them, but God made them sprout and grow. 7 What matters isn't those who planted or watered, but God who made the plants grow. 8 The one who plants is just as important as the one who waters. And each one will be paid for what they do."

In the early part of the twentieth century the family and employees of the American farmer looked forward with great anticipation to the day the crops went to market, and the profits would be distributed among those who had been instrumental in the process between sowing and selling.

On the farm all who sow, reap! In the kingdom, all who work are to participate in the reward. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

There are tens of millions of dollars on deposit with state and federal agencies that belong to people who have never claimed what is rightfully theirs! Most of these people do not even know the resources are there for the claiming. This is a perfect picture of what has occurred in the kingdom. The king is ready for you to reap; do you have what it takes to receive? Psalms 68:19 (NKJV) "Blessed be the Lord, Who daily loads us with benefits, The God of our salvation! Selah" Psalm 103:1-5 (NKJV) "Bless the LORD, O my soul; And all that is within me, bless His holy name! 2 Bless the LORD, O my soul, And forget not all His benefits: 3 Who forgives all your iniquities, Who heals all your diseases, 4 Who redeems our life from destruction, Who crowns you with lovingkindness and tender mercies, 5 Who satisfies your mouth with good things, So that your youth is renewed like the eagle's."

If kingdom work is to be discharged at the highest level of effectiveness possible, kings and priests must be fully aware of how they relate to one another and how each of them fit into the overall plan of God to bring about the harvest.

If nature itself demands the farmer be rewarded for his labor, why is it so difficult for us to believe God will reward those who will step up to the plate for His Kingdom? If we are going to reap a proper reward, we must believe from the inception of the process that it is God's will to reward us.
(LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

If we truly believe this, we will no longer live or work for the moment, but focus on the reward that will be realized upon the completion of the process. Would you prefer to have an employee who is focused on the paycheck at the end of the week or an employee who is focused on the completion of a project?

(END OF LESSON NINE)

REWARD OF KINGS AND PRIESTS

The reward of priests: A person truly operating in a priestly anointing will view the spiritual progress of those in their care as the reward for their labor. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE)

Many have chosen to enter the ministry as a choice of profession. One cannot operate in a priestly anointing simply by making a choice to pursue the ministry as a profession; one must be called to this profession.

God-called priests see the furtherance of the kingdom as the reward of their labor. Oftentimes professional clergy find themselves seeking a paycheck rather than to discover, facilitate, and complete a God-ordained vision.

Those who pursue the ministry as a choice of profession are normally more concerned with the salary package rather than how their gifts will impact the kingdom.

Even those who are God-called and Spirit-anointed for the priesthood are somewhat susceptible to this temptation. What makes everyone in full time ministry so susceptible to this temptation is the fact that most of us have as many expenses as anyone else, plus the expenses attached to the fulfillment of the ministry to which God has called us. (Almost 40% of my income is spent on ministry related expenses - Ministry related expenses are those expenses recognized and allowed by the IRS to be expenses necessary for me to fulfill the responsibilities of my employment)

Ministers, beware of chasing a paycheck as your reward, it will leave you empty, frustrated, and suffering from burnout. (My posture in pastoring - I have never let a paycheck determine my assignment!)

God-called ministers, do not see a paycheck as their reward, on the other hand this does not relieve the church from being responsible for making sure the professional clergy is well cared for.

The greatest rewards of ministry are:
(PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Discovering the vision for the organization... (A God-ordained vision is initiated from the cries of the people)
- Developing and fulfilling the vision...
- The spiritual development of adherents... (My experience teaching new converts) (My experience traveling in the District Office)

The rewards for those who are not in full time ministry but operate in a priestly anointing are the same as those who are in full time ministry. (LEAVE ON SCREEN UNTIL NEXT SLIDE) Nothing thrills a priest as much as seeing how their ministry has been used in the advancement of the kingdom, or to make an eternal difference in the life of an individual.

The accolades and encouragement of others can be motivational but those who operate under a priestly anointing are driven by the need to make a difference in the life of an individual.

The reward of kings...

Those who operate in a kingly anointing have an intense desire to do two things: (PLACE ON THE SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Make financial conquests...

- Solve difficult problems allowing the organization to move forward almost effortlessly...

Making money and solving problems can be exhilarating, but if the efforts of kings are not eventually directed toward the benefit of the kingdom, the kings will find themselves feeling empty despite their success.

When a king experiences momentary exhilaration as a result of their conquest they assume the more conquests achieved, the more satisfaction will be experienced. This is a pivotal point in the life of a king.

Several things can occur: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- They become workaholics...
- They place work ahead of time with God...
- They place work ahead of time with family...

- They begin to compromise principles in order to make the next conquest...
- They begin a downward spiral that often results in the loss of everything...
- They realize that business success is never going to bring complete satisfaction...
- They turn to God with a whole heart and place all they have in the hands of God...
- They realize the only real peace and satisfaction in life flows out of a personal relationship with Jesus...
- They realize that real success is doing the will of God...
- They begin to do the will of God resulting in the blessing of the Lord...

One of the greatest problems in the modern church is the failure to help kings discover how their talents can be used to bring about the success of Gods plan in the earth.

Hundreds of thousands of wonderful Christian men and women throughout America and around the world are doing nothing to benefit the kingdom of God, other than attending church and paying their tithe. No one has ever told them that their talents were given to them for the purpose of financing the work of the priests and aiding the church to do God's work in the earth.

The most satisfying thing that can occur in the life of a king is to: (PLACE ON SCREEN ONE AT A TIME)

- Connect with a priest who has a vision...
- Provide the necessary funding for the vision...
- Witness the vision they have funded making a difference in the life of others...
- Come to the realization that their work in the world is making a difference in the kingdom...

The acquisition of resources alone will never satisfy. Satisfaction can only come from doing the will of God. Jesus repeatedly said, "I must be about my Father's business."
